Below is our exclusive interview with EA's Grant Wahl, who led the research on the "HyperMotion Technology" feature in FIFA 22 Cracked 2022 Latest Version and explains the difference between the FIFA 17 demo and the gameplay in FIFA 22: 1) It's been four years since we first played FIFA 20 and received your details. How have you put the years of experience behind you now to prepare for FIFA 21? "Well, we are based in Cardiff, so we get a lot of pitches that we can test different things on - we just did on Thursday and Saturday in Canada, as a result of doing the FUT World Cup. We had our newest players, like Callum Paterson of Scotland and Steevan Dos Santos of Australia, come in and do some matches. And we tried all kinds of things with them to see what we could improve. 2) In the gameplay demo for FIFA 21 I've seen a lot of new visual details, especially from the new player animations. How did you get the demo to match the final product? "The goal in FIFA is to be able to test as many things as possible before we release the game. But what we don't ever want to do is have a game where players can do something and then not be able to replicate it on release - because we have to do a lot more testing than we can afford. So we put a lot of time into this; we get feedback from our fans, we listen to player feedback, we try and figure it out. It might be a slightly different way of playing from one person's point of view to another person's point of view. "But what we do want, we try to keep to as close to what players can expect from a real world game. In FIFA 17, we did a lot of attacking build-up - and when you go into FIFA 19, that feels a little different, in many ways, but it still remains true. As we've progressed through the years, we have seen players respond to changes and do things that we haven't seen before." 3) In FIFA 20 the defender animation in the short range chip had a high energy. Now that energy is reduced. Why did you make such a big change in FIFA 21? "We basically got some motion capture data on real players and saw how they played the ball and how they got the

Fifa 22 Features Key:

- The amazing new "HyperMotion" technology has been brought to the world of Ultimate Team for the first time, giving fans a brand new way to prepare for their matches. Use new gameplay options such as tactical skill matches and team based skill matches to quickly re-balance your team during a match. Unlock new cards using virtual coins (with two variants) that you can earn through gameplay.
- For the very first time in FIFA history, the FIFA Ultimate Team Series has introduced a brand new card collecting method, where players can unlock more virtual card packs as they progress through the game, making the offline mode more open and accessible.
- The FUT Draft system allows you to draft managers from the past to create a squad of the high-profile stars of the past.
- FUT Draft mini-modes are a new feature that gives users the opportunity to practise their draft skills and to refine their choices in future drafts.

Prepare for action in "FUT Draft" where you can pick from managers from the past such as Diego Maradona and Franz Beckenbauer to create your online FIFA dream team. In this mini-mode players use their Virtual coins to build a mini-squad. You can then draft them into your main tournament. FIFA 22 also introduces the possibility of playing matches against historical real-life players by using the latest motion capture for players to experience more realistic and authentic match-plays.

- The goalkeepers have been completely re-modeled to create a more powerful and skilled attacking juggernaut.
- New animations and visuals, aimed at maximizing player performance and balance.

footballing authorities. What we all strive for is the most authentic and enjoyable game that replicates the sport in its most dynamic, physical and engaging way. Developed by a FIFA development team of over 3,000 employees and facilitated by feedback from more than 70,000 players around the world, FIFA represents the official position of the FIFA family and the worldwide football community. In partnership with national and worldwide partners, FIFA creates a variety of official competitions and an authentic experience for players. Q. Why do we make changes to FIFA? We do not make changes to FIFA or its rules lightly. Our game is designed with a unique sense of progression and constant evolution, and we constantly strive for the very highest quality standards. That's why we make sure that changes are tested properly and that no essential gameplay elements are changed inadvertently. We take into consideration the opinions of millions of players around the world who are passionate about the sport and we are committed to listening to and reflecting their feedback. Q. Do you make changes for FIFA because of requests from the players? We listen to players and we do so because we understand that the quality of the game is a key factor in their enjoyment and we strive to bring the experience of playing real football to more players around the world. Q. Do you make changes for FIFA because of requests from clubs? We do not make changes to FIFA as a direct result of clubs. Club requests typically are evaluated alongside the player feedback we receive through the FIFA development team. Q. Are you concerned for players who have been using FIFA since FIFA 2000? Yes, we would like to reassure our players that we have taken the feedback of players from prior titles very seriously. With this in mind, we have made adjustments to certain aspects of the gameplay and improvements to the game. We look forward to the continued feedback and criticism that we receive from the game community, and will continue to reflect this until the FIFA community feels we have fully delivered our promise to bring the authentic, physical experience of football to more players around the world. Q. FIFA is not a game about money. FIFA is about football. Is it true that FIFA 20 has been improved? We are delighted to announce that FIFA 20 will be the best-selling FIFA title of all time. The great game play features we introduced in FIFA 19 bc9d6d6daa
